Dear Ms. Hampton,

Regarding my complaint (MUR 6924), I suggest you interview Mr. Robert Toyofuku for more information about Andrew Winer's involvement in Senator Hirono's 2012 reelection campaign. Mr. Toyofuku, an attorney, was a member of Hirono's campaign committee and participated regularly in discussing and developing campaign strategy, tactics and fundraising for the campaign. The chairperson of the committee was Betsy Lin, who is currently Senator Hirono's chief of staff. Besides Toyofuku -- Timothy Johns, Jennifer Sabas and Jadine Nielsen were also members of the committee.

Mr. Toyofuku was interviewed recently by investigators for the Hawaii State Attorney General regarding Andrew Winer's participation in the Hirono campaign. I do not know what Mr. Toyofuku told the investigators, however, in a separate discussion with me he said that Winer participated in the committee discussions he attended. In my complaint I referenced how Winer had described himself as a "senior advisor" for the Hirono campaign, I believe your interviewing not only Mr. Toyofuku but Betsy Lin, Timothy Johns, Jennifer Sabas and Jadine Nielsen will confirm that Winer was a "senior advisor" to the Hirono campaign while simultaneously working for the Hawaii Democratic Party's coordinated campaign and employed as a consultant for Pacific Resource Partnership, a non-candidate PAC which contributed $66,000 to Hirono during the 2012 election.

Mr. Toyofuku can be reached at his law office: (808-737-8652), cell phone:
email:

Disclosure: Except for Betsy Lin, I am personally acquainted with Timothy Johns, Jennifer Sabas and Jadine Nielsen. I have known and been friends with Mr. Toyofuku for nearly thirty years, Timothy Johns served as a member of my cabinet from 1995-2002.

I have resorted to email to contact you because I am not aware of where of your review of my complaint stands.

Thank you,

Benjamin J. Cayetano
